Presents:

Charting the LifeCourse™ for Health

Are you interested in making your programs more inclusive of people with intellectual disabilities?

- Find out how your programs can be more accessible
- Learn strategies for inclusion
- Meet new partners in the disability, public health, and recreation fields
- Watch a hands-on demonstration of universally designed teaching from the Color-Coded Chef®!
- Interact with local community members with disabilities

Also, learn about Charting the LifeCourse™ tools that individuals and families are using to set goals and make action plans for healthier, happier living.

Who is this for? Professionals in public health, disability, recreation and other services, as well as people with disabilities, their direct support staff, and family members.
